

must be careful to keep promise. A very regrettable case just came to me of a man who married while his wife was still living and was discharged when through. Otherwise his punishment would have been excellent. I took this to the Navy Department, saying that a less severe punishment might be imposed. Officials of the Navy Department told me that the regulations must be followed. I am taking it to the Secretary of the Navy, fearing that the answer will be that the regulations are one order, no matter how insignificant, he shows that responsibility and duty which is so vital in service.

Young, president of the County Fish and Game Commission, asks if there is any legislation which would require compulsory registration of owners of firearms. Such a law would be detrimental to the safety of the individual and to the community as a whole, he says.

Investigation I find that has passed or is pending would require such registration. The National Rifle Association, however, that in the Seizure Act, Public 373, the Second War Powers Act, Public 507, there are provisions which touch this subject. Public Law 373, any proposed essential for defense regulations by the Government, including firearms. But, the 507 Title VI, there is a provision exempting those who are kept for protection or sport, from registration.

Senator Bilbo Mississippi has introduced a bill, Senate bill 100, which in Section 4 would require the National Rifle Association to register all its members. The bill is now before the Senate. The National Rifle Association says that it does not expect committee will report the bill.

ong the steps recently taken by government to relieve growing shortage of sugar, particularly in the markets, was the release of 10,000 tons of Western beet sugar. It is estimated that the beet sugar can spare as much as 300,000 tons from its reserve supplies. The beet sugar must carry it through until fall when the new crop is harvested. Beet sugar stocks at the beginning of the year totaled 1,900,000 tons. The National Grange urged the production in the continental portion of the United States of a larger portion of sugar we consume. During the year 30 per cent of our sugar was produced at home, while 70 per cent was brought in from the Philippines, Hawaii, Cuba and to Rio.

FORMAL OPENING SATURDAY

Thorndike Hotel Back In Old Quarters, But What a Change Has Been Wrought!

After an absence of nearly seven years the Thorndike Hotel Company yesterday found itself reoccupying its former office quarters on the Tilsen avenue side of the big structure—almost a stranger because of the remarkable transformation which has been effected by the remodeling process of the past few months.

The formal opening of the new office, lobby and dining room is not scheduled until tomorrow, but the Chamber of Commerce banquet last night served as a demonstration to many business men of what has been accomplished by Proprietor Nathan Berliawsky. The stamp of high approval placed upon this work by the business men last night is certain to have prompt endorsement when the general public inspects the new quarters Saturday.

The lobby ceiling is finished in Johns Manville celotex, while the walls are done in Weldtex in the natural color. Adorning the walls is a series of Maine landscape murals, done by Proprietor Berliawsky's talented sister, Mrs. Louise Nevelson at her New York studio.

The many windows which furnish light for the new quarters are shielded from the strong glare of the southern sun by Venetian blinds and heavy drapes. All of the radiators are concealed by Weldtex. A pleasant suggestion of a conservatory is lent by the plants which adorn the southwestern window nook, illuminated at night by fluorescent lighting.

The floor of the lobby office and dining hall is laid with what is said to be the longest one-piece carpet in Maine—109 feet long. This handsome velvet floor covering, with its blue base and attractive design, was laid by a Bangor expert, E. K. Stevens.

The hotel trimmings are done in dull shades of gray, forming a very pleasing contrast.

The hotel office and private office are located between the main lobby and dining hall, the former being equipped with a large semi-circular desk.

The bay windows on the Tilsen avenue side of the office are equipped with circular seats where the guests may lounge in comfort. The windows are shielded by modern Venetian blinds and heavy drapes. On the walls hang oil paintings done by the brush of Mrs. Nevelson.

An arched entrance opens upon the main dining hall, the walls of which are decorated in deep velvet red, with the dull gray trimmings furnishing a pleasing foil. At the eastern end of the dining hall is a large open fireplace, surmounted by a large mirror of French plate. The mantel over the fireplace carries some specimens of modern sculpture—original art by Mrs. Nevelson, which is said to be highly considered by some of the country's ablest critics.

The main dining hall has a comfortable seating capacity of 125, but in the event of a large banquet the section lighted by the bay windows can also be used, increasing the capacity to 250. The dining rooms which were used in connection with the former office will be retained, giving a combined capacity of about 350.

The new quarters were designed by L. L. Schacht, the famous New York artist, who designed the great International Casino in New York City, and who was consulting engineer in the designing of the Bond clothing store on 42nd street, New York—said to be the largest clothing store in New York. Miss Natalie Bicknell of New York directed the interior decorating. The indirect lighting system was the work of W. T. Dean, a local contractor.

When Mr. Berliawsky became proprietor of the Thorndike Hotel nearly four years ago, the owners were faced with an herculean task in the way of repairs and improvements—to be made at a time when hotel business here bore a somewhat dubious prospect. The steady renovation which has been in progress since the hotel passed under its present ownership finds its culmination in the new quarters, which the proprietors feel, have no superior in this part of New England.

Citizens of Knox County—and of course anybody else who may be in this vicinity tomorrow—are invited to the formal opening from 5 to 7 p. m. and the dancing in the old dining hall from 9 to midnight.

For The Sailors

Plans Developing To Provide
Homelike Quarters At the Community Building

The bringing together of a few of Rockland's women, interested in providing a home atmosphere for the sailors who will be coming in to this port, has brought definite and promising results. Credit is due Mrs. Charles Emery for not only thinking of the need but also for doing something about it.

After a conference with Rev. Roy Welker, and words of encouragement from Rev. E. O. Kenyon, chairman of the Defense Committee of the Knox County Clerical Association, representative women of all the churches were invited to a discussion meeting Tuesday in the Congregational vestry.

The need of providing a wholesome, desirable meeting-place for the sailors of the Naval Base and Coast Guard, as well as of the forthcoming Air Base, was felt so strongly that there developed quickly the nucleus of an organization which promises to be of real service in linking up the best and most generous impulse of the community with one of the most outstanding needs of the Service men.

It is felt that the Interdenominational Service Organization can and will be a channel for a fine new effort on the part of Rockland and perhaps of Knox County, and will grow according to the community co-operation given. Plans are already underway for a headquarters at the Community Building where an attractive and homelike room will be prepared for the purpose of reading, writing letters, playing of games and general entertainment.

These committee chairmen have been appointed, with Mrs. Charles Emery as general chairman; Finance, Mrs. Charles Wotton; hostess, Mrs. Keryn ap Rice; housing, Mrs. Joseph Emery, Sr.; furniture, Mrs. Lador Gordon; literature and games, Mrs. Robert B. Maguire; entertainment, Mrs. Roy A. Welker.

Rockland Lions

Ralph P. Conant Elected As
New President—The Air
Raid Wardens

The Rockland Lions Club held its annual meeting yesterday and elected the following officers, who will enter upon their duties the first Wednesday in July:

President—Ralph P. Conant.
Vice Presidents—Rev. Ernest O. Kenyon, and Sam Savitt.
Secretary—Bradford Burgess.
Treasurer—Eugene E. Stoddard.
Lion Tamer—Howard Crockett.
Tail Twister—Lawrence J. Dandeneau.

Directors—L. C. Jackson, Jr. and Frank P. Harding for two years; Robert Gregory and Robert Allen for one year.

Guest speaker Wednesday was L. B. Cook, who told how Mayor Veazie invigorated him into being chief air raid warden, and who described some of the duties and headaches attached to that important, if little understood, position.

Admitting that he didn't know what he was getting into, Chief Cook explained that the Army would be obliged to take over the duties were it not for the Civilian Defense officials.

The prime duty of the air raid wardens is to acquaint us with what might happen. The women are taking the job very seriously and are doing a good job.

It is not the wardens' fault if they become confused, and get the public confused. They are asked to do a certain thing at a certain time and in a certain way. It is laid out on a big scale, and all fits together.

Mr. Cook stated that of the city's approximately 9,000 residents land factory, to become the property of the Federal Government. These popular fish have done their share toward winning the war by schooling at the mill-town dam in unusual numbers, although it was probably never their intention of becoming entrapped. The alewife run is one of the year's most interesting features in Warren, attracting interested visitors from miles around.

Some Maine towns are observing an "Avenge Pearl Harbor Day"—a title which is certainly more befitting than "Remember Pearl Harbor." "Remembering" Pearl Harbor is something we do, not with joy or pride, but with deepest chagrin, and we remember it only in a spirit of vengefulness. Lots remain to be done before the debt is squared.

SERGEANT YORK'S NEIGHBORS

When the British major who was present at the debarkation of our latest troops in Ireland singled out the men from the mountains of Kentucky for special praise, he extended to us one more invitation to become acquainted with our diversified and mighty wartime resources.

Most of us probably had not thought of the hill people as a distinguished part of our population. They were hillbillies; they were feudists; they were moonshiners. Too often we have been content with this superficial and slightly disdainful view. Yet as a matter of fact these hill people as a group—and not just their representatives in north Ireland—are among our most interesting and most valuable citizens.

A circle that has Cumberland Gap, Tennessee, as its center and includes western North Carolina, eastern Tennessee, eastern Kentucky, southern West Virginia and the long western tip of Virginia contains five or six million native-born Anglo-Saxon people. When their forbears pushed westward from the seaboard, some of them made their way through the mountains and on up into Indiana and Illinois—the Lincolns, for instance. But some of them were caught by the sieve which the mountains constituted, and their descendants have been there ever since.

They possess the sinews of character. The hard life in the hills has increased rather than diminished their great readiness to face disagreeable situations. Something in their inheritance, too, plus their isolation, has filled them with a concern in great matters—in religion, in justice. With picturesque eloquence they talked in favor of the present war before more affluent regions had adjusted their minds to any serious thought of such unpleasant matters as fighting. They felt the cruelty of a man who would ride people down roughshod just because he had the power, and they were impatient to have their chance at him.

These people, it must be remembered, are the neighbors of Sergeant York. When he hoped that he might be permitted to recruit a battalion of those among them who had been rejected for service because they had had the great misfortune to grow up without learning to read, he was not making any sentimental gesture. He knew that these people possessed a right outlook, strong wills and courageous ingenuity not unlike his own.

They have so little of life that they are always stirred by a great hungering. They crowd into the opportunity-schools and colleges of the region. They move as unhesitatingly to throw their support to anyone else who hungers or suffers. It is not mere chance that Tennessee should be known as the Volunteer State, and the students and teams of the University of Tennessee as "the Vols." That is how they feel: they are ready to go to any limit for the things they believe in. And they go without any lack of confidence. The British major saw a fair sample.

comprising the William A. Farnsworth Library and Art Museum. Provision for the memorial was contained in the will of Miss Lucy Farnsworth, daughter of the late William A. Farnsworth, and the matter has progressed to the point of architect's plans made by Robert P. Bellows of Boston who also acts as advisor to the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, which is the trustee of the Lucy Farnsworth estate.

The picture, as shown here, of the building to be erected on the site between Elm and Spring streets, consisting of an art museum and library, connected with the office building is from the plans of the architects, Wadsworth and Boston, of Portland. It is probable that the plans as drawn will be acceptable and construction will be started as soon as the Government permits it.

THE FACTS IN THE CASE

Directors of the Maine Publicity Bureau—one of whom is a former Rockland Mayor, Leforest A. Thurston, met in Bangor Wednesday, and after a careful canvassing of the situation reached the verdict that there will be a "fairly substantial" vacation business in Maine this Summer. President Masterman said that early canvasses made by independent travel bureaus in New England and New York show that 90 percent of those approached are planning their usual vacations. Important to consider, of course, would be the question of whether these "early canvasses" were made before or after tire and gas rationing. What the season may develop, if and when a bona fide Summer begins is, of course, difficult to forecast, but on the basis of present conditions, the situation is anything but reassuring. Many wayside resorts which have thriven abundantly in other years are either not opening at all, or will open only long enough to catch what cream of the business there may be in the sultry months of July and August. Establishments which opened at their accustomed time, are reporting only about 25 percent of normal business.

THE NEW RATIONING RULES

Doling of Gasoline Is To Be On Permanent Basis Before July 15

Gasoline rationing on the Eastern Seaboard will be placed on a permanent basis before July 15, with "non-essential" motorists probably receiving an average basic allotment of slightly under four gallons weekly. The plan contemplates permitting the average "non-essential" motorist to drive 2,880 miles annually at a rate of 15 miles to the gallon.

Under the temporary plan now effective in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia, a motorist holding an "A" card now receives three gallons weekly. The plan expires July 1 but present ration cards probably would be used until the permanent plan becomes effective.

The permanent program would allow every motorist an "A" card, consisting of six pages with eight coupons to a page. Each page would be good for 60 days. Figured on the 2,880 mile estimate and 15 miles to the gallon, the result would be about four gallons weekly.

The present "X" cards, providing unlimited gasoline supplies would be eliminated entirely under the permanent Atlantic Coast program. All rationing would be on a coupon basis, with any allowance over the basic minimum based on actual necessary automobile usage.

A new registration of automobile owners will be necessary but no date for the registration has been set.

The coupons must be turned in to the gasoline dealer, and must be given by him, in turn, to his supplier in order to have his tanks replenished.

Persons requiring additional gasoline over and above the basic allowance to get to and from work or to carry on their businesses, will get "B" or "C" cards in addition to the "A" cards, while commercial and industrial users will be issued a new type of card—"S-1" or "S-2."

The "B" card will contain 16 coupons. If a driver's statements to the registrar indicate that he does not need all the gasoline this provides, a date limit will be set on the validity of this card.

Persons needing still more gasoline will receive the "C" card, containing 96 coupons. This will go to government officials, doctors, ministers, nurses and other essential persons. Persons needing less

One of our subscribers writes: "With all the fine things that appear in The Courier-Gazette what an opportunity for young people and others to make a scrap book of them. In years to come how much it would mean and be worth to those who do this to see again the album of 'Our War Heroes,' local news, valuable contributions, verse, Mr. Holman's sermonee, Church Notes, Mr. Burns' portrait sketches are those of a real artist. That man is sure going places in this line of work."

The Courier-Gazette mentions "the town of Owl's Head" casually. One always had thought of Owl's Head as that picturesque lump with a lighthouse on it, just outside of Camden. But Lippincott knows the town; calls it Owlhead and gives it a population about 200. Anyway, it's a slightly place—Ed. Pointer in the Boston Globe.

Mrs. Ed. Pointer, a former resident of the Penobscot valley, should have edited her husband's manuscript. She would have told him that "the town of Owl's Head" is outside of Rockland, not Camden; and she would have told Mr. Lippincott to go jump in the lake with his population figures, for the census of 1940 gives Owl's Head 609 inhabitants instead of the "about 200" with which Mr. Lippincott credits it. Ed. Pointer is decidedly correct when he calls it "a slightly place." One of the prettiest spots on the Maine coast, to be exact.

Canada is planning to utilize an annual excess of 100 million cubic feet of sawdust as fuel for heating homes, the Department of Commerce reports. Better than that in breakfast food where some humorists credit it with going.

If anyone would like a souvenir of the steamboat days, Ross Kent, the former captain of the Steamer North Haven will gladly present his famous "bean pot" which served him as a cuspidor until he generated people from North Haven, presented the captain with a real one. Incidentally, if your family is small and if you don't mind the smell or flavor of tobacco this former steamboat relic could be used as a bean pot as it was originally intended.

As if the vexations of a boundary dispute were not sufficient the six officials who sought to adjust it in Knox County town the other night were compelled to battle with a horde of hungry mosquitoes. An impartial observer who remained within the safe environment of a closed car is of the opinion that of the two bills the boundary dispute is only a trifling matter.

Reminiscence of bygone days, 1906, to be exact, was the snapshot Philip Howard showed me yesterday. The scene was Main street, across which hung two campaign banners. One was a Democratic flag, on which appeared the names of Bryan and Kern, McGillicuddy (for Congress) and Obadiah Gardner (for Governor). The Republican flag, which occupied a position well in the background, photographed by this loyal Democrat, notified the world that Taft and Sherman were running for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, respectively. Campaign banners have passed out of the picture, but they furnished a much greater thrill than a canned radio speech.

Elwood St. Clair and Emory St. Clair, Jr., of Owl's Head picked quite a few ripe wild strawberries, one day this week. And there's plenty of cream walking around in almost every pasture.

There used to be an old minstrel joke to the effect that married men don't live longer than single men. An it only seems longer. Be that as it may I have a very good friend at the North End who is firmly convinced that most husbands pass on before their wives. He has kept a sort of record over a period of years and it shows that 86 husbands died before their wives, and that only 17 wives died before their husbands. Now maybe some wise guy has a serious explanation on that point.

One year ago, Murray Ames, 17, lost his life at Matinicus when he undertook to save the life of Raymond Tolman, 46, who had fallen overboard—The Waldoboro Garage Company acquired the former P. H. Thomas garage property at 118 Park street.—The Tydol Pilling Station near Strand Theatre was taken over by George W. Wood.—Rockland soldiers were home from Portland to take part in the Memorial Day Parade. Rev. Kenneth H. Cassens was the orator.—Among the deaths: Camden, Mrs. John T. Dean, 67; Rockland, Maurice O. Wilson, 70; Friendship, Frederick Collette, 64; Appleton, Jedediah Simmons, 87.

A postcard from Capt. William H. Wincapaw tells of being obliged to make a forced landing in the Ecuador jungles due to motor failure. It necessitated a trip back to the States for a new motor, which he obtained in Miami, Fla. and shipped back to Guayaquil by air express. From the Ecuador metropolis it was to go on mule back to the forced-down plane, where it will be installed in order that the machine may be flown out. Mrs. Wincapaw was in Miami to meet her husband.

In Armed Forces

Below are listed several Knox County men who are serving in the armed forces and whose names have been turned into The Courier-Gazette in answer to a recent article, asking for such names.

Daniel Kavanaugh, Rockland, Army.
Donald J. Walker, Rockland, Marine Corps.
Harvey Curney, Appleton, Army.
George Griffin, Appleton, Army.
Lorin Robbins, Appleton, Army.

Springfield, Mass., Irving H. McConchie, a former star athlete at Rockland High School, has been awarded a special scholarship at Springfield College where he is beginning his sophomore year. Mr. McConchie was granted this aid on the basis of his fine scholarship and leadership ability. McConchie has done exceptionally well at Springfield College, being vice-president of his class and a member of the freshman football and baseball teams. At Rockland High School he participated in all forms of athletics, was an officer in the Public Speaking Club, and a member of the National Honor Society. Mr. McConchie is now a student in the first Summer session of the accelerated wartime program of Springfield College. The first Summer session will end June 27.

If the streets at Arden cemetery could be given signs directing motorists, there would be less cause for traffic hold-ups and less trespassing, as is now the case of cars being obliged to drive up to lots where they regret going. Simple and needed.

Lord Edward Montagu, whose affairs have been gaining so much publicity in all of the newspapers, Sheriff Ludwig has sent to his last known address in Boston two warrants signed by Camden business men, charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses, one of them to the amount of $750 and the other $115. Lord Montagu had been spending the past two months in Camden, where, it is said, he planned to buy the Thomas J. Watson cottage.

Hiram Ingerson who has been employed in Boston for several years, has returned home and is employed by the North Lubec Manufacturing & Canning Company.

"It's the coldest Spring I can remember," remarked Simon H. Hall yesterday. As Mr. Hall is in his 93d year, and blessed with an excellent memory, it would seem to have been quite a spell since he had the like of it.

The first regular meeting of Huntley Hill, Post, VFW, under Commander Charles Hill, will be held at 8.30 p. m. Monday night. All members are requested to attend. Delegates to the State Encampment will be elected.

Sunday at 2 the Pirates play a double header at Community Park which should be of great interest to the baseball fans. In the first game they play against the strong High School nine which to date has the best record ever by a Rockland team in that it is undefeated to date. Camden plays the second game and with the outfit that beat the Prison team as a possible Twilight League entrant the fans should see two real ball games.

Funeral services for John C. Howes will take place at 2 p. m. today at the church in Washington.

Busy days ahead for the High School graduates, beginning tonight when the commencement ball will be held at the Community Building. Sunday night the baccalaureate service will be held at the same place at 7.30, the baccalaureate address being given by Rev. Dr. John Smith Love. Other pastors taking part in this union service will be Rev. J. Charles MacDonald, Rev. Dr. Guy Wilson, Rev. John A. Cummings and Rev. Charles A. Marshall. Northern children are mourning the loss of the little Scotch terrier puppy owned by Junior Freeman of Chestnut street. Scotty was run over and killed Monday by a passing automobile.

Disregard of and contempt for the dim old regulations is not going to be tolerated in Rockland. Chief of Police Laurence K. Mansfield made that very plain in a statement yesterday. A young man who was snooty to the auxiliary police at the Public Landing, refusing to dim his automobile lights was haled into court and fined. Fine and costs were suspended, but the next offender will be held in no uncertain terms. The auxiliary police are vested with full authority and Chief Mansfield wishes the public to understand it.

SERMONETTE

Prepare For Winter

The people in New England are facing difficult days now and increasingly difficult will be the days to come. They are first in the country to feel the rationing of sugar, of gasoline and tires.

When asked why this is so, the usual answer is, "The matter of transportation." As well might the toes complain that they lack blood because they are so far from the heart. The heart recognizes its duty to the body as a whole, to every part remote or near. Months ago the Congress and the Administration were urged to build a pipe line to the East and the North East Corner known as New England. A pipe line was built to Canada from Portland. At that time there were tankers and it was supposed that care would be taken to protect the Maine coast now the most dangerous in the world.

Within this month are the shortest days, and no matter what the calendar says, after June 22 people here are sliding toward eight months of cold. Resisted all the time of the dire shortage of fuel; "Lay in coal, you will get no oil and wood is scarce and expensive." Advertisements say it is lawful to hoard coal. Millions have no facilities to burn anything but oil and their equipment was extremely costly. Does anyone believe it is more righteous to hoard coal while your neighbor is in peril from cold than to hoard food while others starve?

Lacking constructive leaders in Congress, the people of this cold but wonderful section of this country must rely upon themselves, and then share and "never hoard." They must not be pessimistic nor over optimistic.

The President has warned against either state of mind. Citizens must be self-reliant and love and water their neighbors' well being as they do their own.

Trust in God. "Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of my fury; thou shalt no more drink it again."

—William A. Holman
